People take notice of others who are different to them, and don’t turn away.

All people, regardless of any difference, have the same opportunities to take part in all aspects of community life.

Spaces are designed so that everyone has access (accessibility – eg wheelchair access in buildings and public spaces).

People use respectful language when talking about people who are different to them.

All people, regardless of any difference, have a sense of belonging and respect in the community.

All people are acknowledged for the contributions they make.